Success at the RIBA Awards 2008

Foster + Partners has been awarded two prestigious RIBA Awards for the Thomas Deacon Academy in Peterborough and Wembley Stadium in London. Both will find out whether they have won RIBA National Awards when they are announced in June.

Wembley Stadium was selected from 131 London entries and presented with a RIBA award in the Arts and Leisure category at today's ceremony in the Young Vic Theatre. The judges praised it as both an outstanding practical achievement and an enormously successful London landmark.'

Thomas Deacon Academy was described by the judges as a pleasure to be in and a beacon for secondary school design. Winning a RIBA award for the East region, the building opened to students in September and is the largest of Foster + Partners academy projects.

Mouzhan Majidi, Chief Executive of Foster + Partners said:

We are thrilled to receive RIBA Awards this year for two very different projects in the UK. Wembley Stadium symbolises all that is great about football and occupies an essential place in British sporting history, while providing world-class facilities on a unique scale. Thomas Deacon Academy is an expression of the school's teaching ethos and a result of an enriching collaboration with the Academy's sponsors, teachers, children and the local education authority. These are both buildings which we hope will provide a memorable experience for the people who use them.
