In this month's World Architecture BD 100 list for 2015 <http://www.bdonline.co.uk/wa-100> Foster + Partners were once again voted most admired architectural practice for the ninth year in a row by their fellow architects.

Norman Foster said: "To be voted most admired practice by our peers is a great honour. It is a huge tribute to our talented and hard-working teams with their myriad skills and disciplines, both in our many studios around the world and our base in London, all working towards the common goal of bringing innovative design solutions to create a better built environment."

The practice was also 16th largest practice in the world ranked by number of fee-earning architects.
